- Part 3: The Indian Mutiny to the Zulu War

Part 1: The War of the Spanish Succession to the American Revolutionary War

The War of the Spanish Succession (1701-1714) was a major conflict that pitted Britain and its allies against France and its allies. The war was fought over the issue of who would succeed to the Spanish throne. The British were victorious in the war, and they gained control of Gibraltar and Minorca.

The American Revolutionary War (1775-1783) was a conflict between Britain and its American colonies. The colonists were fighting for independence from British rule. The British were defeated in the war, and the United States of America was born.

Part 2: The Napoleonic Wars to the Crimean War

The Napoleonic Wars (1803-1815) were a series of conflicts between Britain and France. The wars were fought over the issue of who would control Europe. The British were victorious in the wars, and they emerged as the dominant power in Europe.

The Crimean War (1853-1856) was a conflict between Britain, France, and the Ottoman Empire on one side and Russia on the other. The war was fought over the issue of who would control the Black Sea. The British and their allies were victorious in the war, and they gained control of the Black Sea.

Part 3: The Indian Mutiny to the Zulu War

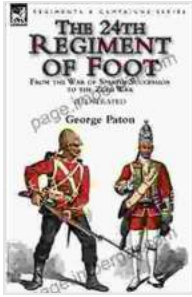

The Indian Mutiny (1857-1858) was a rebellion by Indian soldiers against British rule in India. The rebellion was eventually suppressed by the British, but it led to a number of reforms in the way that India was governed.

The Zulu War (1879-1880) was a conflict between Britain and the Zulu Kingdom. The war was fought over the issue of who would control the Transvaal. The British were victorious in the war, and they gained control of the Transvaal.
