But their happiness is short-lived. Ethan is diagnosed with a terminal illness, and Lily must face the prospect of losing him all over again. In the face of this devastating news, they both must come to terms with their own mortality and the fragility of life. Ethan must learn to let go of his guilt and anger, while Lily must find the strength to move on.

Reuther's writing is lyrical and evocative, and her characters are unforgettable. Ethan and Lily are both flawed and complex, and their journey is both heartbreaking and hopeful. This is a must-read for anyone who has ever loved and lost.
